The College of Business (COB) is committed to excellence and the academic growth and achievement of our students. We believe in accountability, performance disclosure and continuous improvement.

Three college student learning outcomes (CSLOs) are assessed regularly to measure student learning and gauge the effectiveness of teaching.[1]

CSLO #1. COB Business students will demonstrate an ability to write intelligently about business.

CSLO #2. COB Business students will be able to present at a professional level about business.

CSLO #3. COB Business students will demonstrate acquisition of up-to-date business content knowledge expected of a graduate with the BS or BA degree.

CSLO #1 is assessed once a year in W*ħ9 e W*ħ9 F7s

Assessors assigned by the COB Assessment Committee evaluate student artifacts based on the writing assessment rubric created by the COB Assessment Committee. Assessment results of writing skills are first reviewed by the COB Assessment Committee and then shared with all COB faculty.

[1] The B.S. Supply Chain Management program moved to the College of Business in Fall 2021. No reportable data are available.
